Resolution 98-11-S
Evaluation of Teachers
March 30, 1998

- PURPOSE: For the University to allow students to evaluate their professors at the end of each semester rather than just the fall semester.
- WHEREAS: It is highly unfair for students not to be able to voice their opinions about professors and the professors' teaching styles each semester, and
- WHEREAS: typically, students have their professors for only one semester's therefore, students need to evaluate each of their professors on a semester-long basis, and
- WHEREAS: students pay for their education and deserve the right to evaluate each of their professors at the end of every semester, and
- WHEREAS: these evaluations would give the University twice the amount of information regarding students' opinions about the professors, and
- WHEREAS: this would give the professors more feedback about how they are viewed and how effective their teaching styles are.
- THEREFORE: Be it resolved that we, the members of the Student Government Association, do hereby recommend that the University adopt a policy allowing students to evaluate their professors at the end of every semester.
