

Western Kentucky University

TopSCHOLAR®

WKU Archives Records

WKU Archives

4-15-1999

UA12/2/1 College Heights Herald, Vol. 74, No. 51

WKU Student Affairs

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.wku.edu/dlsc_ua_records

Part of the Advertising and Promotion Management Commons, African American Studies Commons, Higher Education Administration Commons, Journalism Studies Commons, Mass Communication Commons, Public Relations and Advertising Commons, Publishing Commons, Race and Ethnicity Commons, Social Influence and Political Communication Commons, and the Sports Studies Commons

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by TopSCHOLAR®. It has been accepted for inclusion in WKU Archives Records by an authorized administrator of TopSCHOLAR®. For more information, please contact topscholar@wku.edu.

Man spying on women in showers

Women in PFT report peeper

By JIM GAINES
Herald reporter

For several weeks a peeping Tom has haunted the women's showers in Pearce-Ford Tower, spying on residents and vanishing before Residence Life and campus police can arrive. The first report to campus police came Saturday, April 3. Louisville sophomore Christina Schultise went for a late-morning shower and saw a man peering through a gap in the shower stall. She ran to her room and called police, but by the time they arrived he was gone.

Since then, Schultise said a man matching the peeper's description has been spotted in the halls and stairwells on the 25th, 23rd and 10th floors.

"A lot of the girls in the dorm are scared now to take showers," said Tevis Haynie, a Bowling Green junior.

The peeper was in Haynie's shower Sunday, April 11. She called the PFT front desk, and the person working called the police. Assistant hall director Rebecca Julius came to Haynie's room with the police and talked with Haynie.

"She said, 'He hasn't touched anybody, he's just been looking,'"

Haynie said.

Campus police are investigating, Capt. Mike Wallace said. All reported incidents have been on weekends between 10 a.m. and noon.

Police believe the peeper is not a student, Wallace said.

"Hopefully we'll be able to resolve this matter within the next couple of days," he said.

Resident assistants stopped and identified two male high school students wandering in PFT

last week, said Housing and Residence Life Director Brian Kuster.

They are now suspects, Kuster said. He knows of no problems relating to male residents, those who live in coed dorms regard it as a privilege and tend not to abuse it. Students can now move freely from floor to floor in coed dorms, he said.

Hall staff reacted quickly to

SEE SPYING, PAGE 5

Rick Scibelli/Herald

Visiting scholar, Xiaoyun Li, of Beijing, China, waits backstage prior to taking a stroll down the catwalk Tuesday night at the International Gala, a fashion show put on as part of International Week.

Fashion show opens Western to world

Show a fund-raiser for International Center

By CAROLINE LYNCH
Herald reporter

Cheers rose from the audience as junior Logi Pragason sauntered onto the catwalk. Some cheered in English, others rooted in Spanish.

And a few even hollered in Japanese.

The Reykjavik, Iceland native paused briefly at the end of the runway to show off his three piece suit. As he stood under the bright lights, he took a moment to survey the scene of 300 guests from Western and the Bowling Green community.

The guests wore dresses, suits and heels. And in front of them on white tablecloths sat colorful salads, flowery centerpieces and too many forks to count.

The sold-out crowd welcomd Western's first International Gala — a night of fine food and garments from around the world — at the south campus ballroom Tuesday night. The fashion show was a chance for Western's international students to give Bowling Green a glimpse of their world.

At $25 a plate or $300 a table, the gala was a major fund raiser er for the International Center. According to Marcello Bruni, Assistant director for International Programs, the bulk of the money will be going toward two scholarships: one for an American student studying abroad, and the other for an international student studying at Western.

Bruni said this was the first time in almost 20 years Western

SEE FASHION, PAGE 6

Turbulent elections complete

Coates wins SGA presidency by 3 votes

By RYAN CLARK
Herald reporter

In an election where the amount of mudslinging outweighed the pounds of candy distributed, some students finally came out clean.

After all, somebody had to win.

On Tuesday 1,436 students voted in the Student Government Association's general election, which decided the officers for the 1999-2000 school year and has been exceptionally controversial.

According to initial results, Amanda Coates and Cassie Martin will oversee SGA into the

SEE ELECTIONS PAGE 2

Grant loss may close care center

Adult Day Care Center submits bid late

By MOLLY HARPER
Herald reporter

A contractual technicality could mean Western will lose control of its Adult Day Care Center.

The center, which helps care for elderly and disabled people in the community, has 66 clients and 19 employees.

The state's contract to run the center was awarded this year to Commonwealth Health Corp., the parent company of the Medical Center at Bowling Green Western, which has held the contract for the last nine years, was a day late submitting its proposal this year to the Barren River

SEE CENTER PAGE 5

INSIDE

John Carpenter part of book festival

The Southern Kentucky Festival of Books kicks off this weekend. More than 90 authors, including R. L. Stine, creator of "Goosebumps," and former Western student John Carpenter, creator of "Halloween," will be in town for the event. Page 7

Western names 1999's Male Athlete of the Year

Travis Mandigo, a fourth-year swimmer from Houston, has been named Male Athlete of the Year. He has been a finalist every year at the NIC Championships and part of two undefeated teams in the yearly event. Page 9

Take a wild ride this weekend at Banshee

It only happens once a year. The wild ruckus at Beech Bend Raceway Park on Saturday will leave partygoers with hangovers, cotton-mouth and possibly lost car keys, if past Banshee parties are any indication. Page 7

OTHER NEWS

Tax deadline is tonight

Area post offices have extended schedules to handle last-minute tax filers. The only location open until midnight is the Processing and Distribution Center on Scottsville Road. The last collection from blue boxes on 11th Avenue, Center Street and College Street will be at midnight as well.

Weather forecast

Thursday	Friday	Saturday	Sunday	Monday
53° 70°	39° 55°	38° 52°	36° 57°	34° 58°

R: 53°/60° storms
F: 43°/54° rain
S: 38°/51° cloudy
M: 34°/55° cloudy

• Louisville

• Owensboro

R: 53°/60° storms
F: 43°/54° rain
S: 38°/51° cloudy
M: 34°/55° cloudy

• Paducah

R: 54°/62° storms
F: 38°/53° windy
S: 38°/51° cloudy
M: 34°/55° cloudy

• Nashville

R: 53°/60° storms
F: 43°/54° rain
S: 38°/51° cloudy
M: 34°/55° cloudy

• Lexington

R: 53°/60° storms
F: 43°/54° rain
S: 38°/51° cloudy
M: 34°/55° cloudy

• Paducah

R: 54°/62° storms
F: 38°/53° windy
S: 38°/51° cloudy
M: 34°/55° cloudy

A look back at Western's history

Western's first women's athletic event was a basketball game in 1914. An overall women's athletics program had its first official push in 1973, with the start of golf and tennis.

H. Rick Mack/Herald

Recovery time: Scottsville sophomore Leslie McClard recovers after donating a pint of blood Wednesday at the Preston Health and Activities Center. "It wasn't that bad," says McClard, a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Donations from this week's blood drive benefit the American Red Cross.

Crime Reports

Arrests

• Alison Marie Zimmerman, Central Hall, was charged Tuesday with failure to appear in court. She was released from the Warren County Regional Jail the same day on a $100 cash bond.

Reports

• Shawna M. Shartzler Austin reported Monday several items missing from her purse in Tate Page Hall.
• Katrina C. Robinson, McCormack Hall, reported Tuesday the rear window, valued at $250, broken on her 1991 Toyota while parked on Big Red Way.

• Amanda M. Ackman, McCormack, reported Tuesday her Big Red Card and dorm room key, total value $21, stolen from her backpack in Thompson Complex Central Wing.

WKU police may lose officers

Grant for three on payroll ends soon

By ERIN WILKINS
Herald reporter

Campus police may be patrolling campus with three fewer officers after June 31.

Western's administration is still unsure if money will be budgeted to keep the three officers as full-time employees after the grant money they were hired with runs out. The Community Oriented Policing Services, or COPS, grants were given to approximately 100,000 police departments across the country by the U.S. Department of Justice.

Western received its first COPS grant in March 1996, and the money from this grant ran out at the end of March 1999, although the officers will be kept as employees until at least June. The three Western officers — Ricky Powell, Allen Polk and Glen Woodard — still do not know if they will be employed by Western after June.

Capt. Mike Wallace said he hopes after an evaluation of the department by Public Administration Service is complete, the firm will recommend to the university that Western needs more officers.

"We need the manpower," Wallace said. "We are just waiting for PAS to complete the evaluation."

The firm, located in McLean, Va., was hired to evaluate the efficiency of almost every aspect of campus police, especially manpower, and is expected to complete the evaluation by May.

Dan Pfeiffer, spokesman for the COPS program, said agencies are usually expected to retain the officers after a grant has run out, unless there are circumstances that will not allow it.

"People want to keep these officers, even if they decide they can't," Pfeiffer said. "We try to work with these departments to help them find a way to keep the officers."

Pfeiffer said the three years of the grant money should allow most departments enough time to find the resources to fund salaries for the new officers.

"A natural disaster, or a major factory shutting down in a smaller city would be some of the only reasons departments would not have the money to keep these officers," Pfeiffer said.

General Counsel Deborah Wilkins proposed PAS' evaluation of the department and hopes it will lead to a recommendation to budget more money for officer salaries.

"The COPS program requires us to make a good faith effort toward keeping these officers," she said. "And that is what we are doing."

Atticus Fault
the well
MONDAY, APRIL 19 AT 8PM
WKU CAMPUS IN THE VALLEY

THE FABULOUS FUN FINDER!
Just Go KENTUCKY
www.justgokentucky.com
A Kentucky.com affiliate

WKU-HOSA

presents
The Annual Lecture on Health Care Issues

featuring
Kentucky Commissioner of Insurance George Nichols III

at the Institute for Economic Development
2355 Nashville Road
Tuesday, April 20, 1999
7:30 p.m.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

CORPORATE SPONSORS
Greenview Regional Hospital
The Medical Center
at Bowling Green
Southern Kentucky
Underwriter's Assoc.

CAMPUS CO-SPONSORS
South Central AHEC/HETC
Dept. of Allied Health
Dept. of Nursing
Dept. of Public Health

Covering Western civilization since 1925.

College Heights Herald

15% WKU Student Discount! When Rented Quarterly!
Reserve your space now! You lock and you keep your key.

A-B-C MINI-SELF STORAGE

A-B-C MINI-SELF STORAGE	BOAT CAR	FURNITURE RV	COMMERCIAL BUSINESS	INVENTORY RECORDS	BOOKS
10 x 30	10 x 20	10 x 15	10 x 10	5 x 10

A SPACE AND PRICE JUST FOR YOUR NEEDS
CONVENIENT LOCATION, SECURITY FENCE AND LIGHTING.
... DISCOUNT WHEN PAID QUARTERLY ...

781-1886

136 ST. CHARLES AVE.
OFF RUSSELLVILLE RD
BOWLING GREEN KY
OFFICE: 2216 RUSSELLVILLE RD

Years of serving Western's students—2 blocks from campus.

ELECTIONS: Coates wins president race by 3 votes

CONTINUED FROM FRONT PAGE

next millennium. They defeated opponents Will Jones and Kara Yeckering in the presidential and vice-presidential race by five votes, 616 to 611. The write-in campaign of Dwight Campbell and Kerri Richardson finished a distant third, tallying 145 votes.

Coates and Martin, upon hearing of their victory, asked for a recount of the votes, to ensure their win. The recount, which took place that night, revealed an even closer victory for the party, 614 to 611.

"I can't stop shaking," Coates said after hearing the results outside SGA's office in DUC. "I thought I hadn't heard the numbers right."

Coates disappeared into a crowd of people, tears streaming down her cheeks, in search of her mother.

"I'm going to go call my mom, too," said Martin. "It's hard to imagine six people making this much of a difference. All this week, we've been praying to God."

"God did it."

Martin, who could not help jumping up and down after winning, followed her running mate into the throng of well-wishers.

Jones was not available for comment.

In the vice president of finance race, which produced some of the hottest controversy of all the cam-

SGA election winners

President/V.P.
Amanda Coates and Cassie Martin defeated Will Jones and Kara Yeckering 616-611

V.P. of Finance
Joe Mathews defeated Ryan Morrison 700-688

V.P. of Administration
Brandon Griffey defeated Amanda Kirby 729-652

V.P. of Public Relations
Matt Bastin defeated Duan Wright 806-570

paigns, Joe Mathews won with 700 votes to opponent Ryan Morrison's 688. Two hours later, that race was under judicial review.

Mathews was recently threatened with disqualification because of fliers he distributed on the desks in classrooms late Monday night, a blatant violation of election code. He also placed them in computer labs, violating another code. SGA's judicial council told Mathews if there was not a "good faith effort" to pick up all the fliers, Morrison could be declared the winner.

Tuesday morning members of the judicial council thought enough of the pamphlets had been picked up, and later that day, Mathews won.

"It was a real close race," Mathews said. "I'm just glad it's all over with."

Morrison said the race is not over, citing many of the fliers were still on desks in Garrett Center and the fine arts center.

"They cheated," Morrison said. "With the whole handbill issue, they were told to have those declared the winner."

that they did not do that."

Morrison filed a complaint with the judicial council yesterday.

In the two races that garnered absolutely no tension whatsoever the losers were as gracious as the winners.

Matt Bastin defeated Duan Wright for vice president of public relations, 806 to 570.

Vying for vice president of administration, opponents Brandon Griffey and Amanda Kirby were teasing each other before the results were announced. Afterward, when Griffey learned he had won 729 to 652, he hugged Kirby, wishing her well.

It's safe to say hugs were not exchanged between any of the other candidates.

"In my opinion, this election, in terms of politics, was the most accurate I've seen in comparison to real life," said judicial council member Drew Harvill.

Controversies have made this year's SGA election especially ugly from the Spears/Mory write-in campaign to abolish SGA, to Jones' pizza party to the handbills portending Jones' campaign as a race issue, to Mathews' own handbill distribution, to Campbell's write-in campaign after his primary loss, to a new situation involving Coates and Martin.

While debating Mathews' handbills Monday night, the judicial council discussed pamphlets placed in Van Meter Hall during the annual Greek Spring Sing. The pamphlets were taped to the auditorium chairs encouraging voters to vote for Coates and Martin.

Since the auditorium also serves as a classroom, members questioned the legality of having the bills on the chairs.

The judicial council plans to meet Friday to discuss these issues as well as all of the others surrounding the '99 campaign.

Said SGA Chief Justice John Crowe, "We'll meet and mop up what is left of this election."

Funding for Western could increase, with tuition to follow

Performance major factor in money-giving

By MATTIAS KAREN
Herald reporter

Western will soon be able to set its own tuition rates, and possibly receive an increase in state funding, thanks to new funding and tuition guidelines approved Monday by the Council on Postsecondary Education.

The new guidelines allow state universities to set their own tuition rates starting in fall 2000. Tuition had been set by the CPE. The guidelines also set new procedures for the way state universities are funded, putting emphasis on three areas — benchmark institutions, performance indicators and incentive trust funds. The old formula for state funding was based on the number of enrolled students a university had.

Tuition

Letting universities set their own tuition is something the CPE thinks will bring more management flexibility to the institutions, said Debbie McGuffey, director of communications for the CPE.

The new tuition rates must make up at least one third of the university's total budget. That means if Western receives a big enough increase in state funding, tuition fees will automatically have to go up as well, said Chief Financial Officer Ann Mead.

Mead said about 39 percent of Western's total budget currently comes from tuition, so a substantial increase in state funding is needed before tuition rates are forced to go up.

She said even if tuition rates are forced to go up, the new guidelines are still positive for Western.

"I don't know how it could be negative because we are underfunded," she said.

The new guidelines also say institutions can choose whether they want to charge higher rates for out of state students which Western currently does or set different rates for different programs. Rates may also be set on a per credit basis.

Western will have to present its planned tuition rates to the CPE by Sept. 1, at the council's 2000-02 biennial budget request in Frankfort.

Mead said the tuition proposal might be presented to the Board of Regents at its meeting in July. She said it was too early to speculate what the tuition rates are going to be, since it's not certain how much state funding Western will receive.

State funding

The new state funding process will use new benchmark institutions for each state university. Western recently chose 19 new out of state universities to be its benchmark institutions.

The CPE will analyze the amount of public funds each of the institutions receive per full time equivalent student, before it decides how many state dollars Western will get.

McGuffey said the CPE believes using benchmark institutions is "the fairest and most desirable approach" for both the state and its universities.

Performance funding

Universities may receive higher levels of funding if they meet certain performance measures, such as graduation and retention rates. Enrollment of black students and employment of black faculty and staff will also be taken into consideration.

New trust funds may also be initiated to encourage progress toward the goals of the Higher Education Reform Act.

Holocaust survivor to tell life story

By LEIGH ANN MOORE
Herald reporter

Joseph Gavi's father, grandfather and other relatives died in a concentration camp for Russian Jews in 1941. Gavi survived, and at age 9 became an expert on slipping through the fences. He used that skill to lead 250 people to freedom.

By age 13 Gavi was a member of the Russian partisans and a heavy vodka drinker.

If you go

Who: Holocaust hero Joseph Gavi
When: 5:30 p.m., tomorrow
Where: Craig Alumni Center
Admission: free

He earned a doctorate in science from Minsk Polytechnic Institute, where he then taught for 20 years. After a long career there, it was discovered he was a Jew and he was fired. Gavi moved to Chicago in 1978 and Louisville in 1982, where he now owns a restaurant.

"He said he'd barely ever even eaten in a restaurant, and now he owns one," said history Professor Carlton Jackson.

Gavi has also been a professional wrestler and mountain climber.

Gavi will relay his compelling story at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Craig Alumni Center.

Ideas? Complaints? Call the Herald at 745-6011.

Get ready for summer!
Pamper your feet at Merle Norman Bring this coupon in for $5.00 off a pedicure!
Call for your appointment
746-6499 Walton Center

VETTE CITY LIQUORS
"WE SELL FOR LESS"

Miller Lite $5.99 12oz NR bottles 12-pack	Coor's & Coors Light ORIGINAL $8.99 12 oz cans 18-pack
Bud & Bud Light $6.79 12oz cans 12-pack	Busch & Busch Light $5.49 12oz cans 12-pack
Jim Beam 750ml $8.99	Early Times 750ml $6.99	Seagram's Gin 750ml $7.99	E & J Brandy 750ml $7.99
Jack Daniels 750ml $14.99	Makers Mark 750ml $15.99	Tanqueray Gin 750ml $16.99	Absolut Vodka 750ml $15.99

★ ★ ★ "We Sell For Less" ★ ★ ★
VETTE CITY LIQUORS
2037 RUSSELLVILLE ROAD-BOWLING GREEN, KY
(502)782-5551

Opinion

Letters to the Editor

SGA offers no leadership

Students are missing out hard this semester. We have no student advocacy group, and the administration is running wild with increased fees and decreased services.

I think it's a shame that the Student Government Association has basically done nothing of importance this semester. I mean, sure they asked the university to move a crosswalk a few feet, but where is the fight for students' rights now when we need it?

SGA is not a representative group of students; it's the appointed club of a few people who like to debate and play with an overfunded treasury. SGA needs to elect its congress. Even two of its executive offices are appointed right now. People say that just not enough students are asking to be involved well, maybe SGA needs to beef up its tactics for getting the word out that they want student help.

Put a congressional application in the Herald where students can fill it out and mail it in. Get away from an elitist group that simply debates where its retreat should be held.

The Student Health Service is a massively important department on this campus. I can not see how anyone could question the use of university funds with this group. When the Student Health Service leaves Western, no one loses as bad as the students.

We lose the prevention programs of a great staff and great services from the talented doctor and nurses. My respect remains with you all SGA needs to support you!

The University president is showing yet again that he is a great fund-raiser, but getting a little too crazy with the pocket-book.

Housing and Residence Life wants us to renew our applications. I hope everyone has noticed the efforts of the staff to keep you in your little boxes. They all get reduced-rate rooms if they meet quotas, so when they preach their Play Doh concept, do what I do and opt to pay more dough to get more space.

They may require us to live on campus, but I think the standard of living in a Third World environment is grounds to file an appeal. When will the university realize they should provide housing that people would choose?

Room rates are increasing, and we are decreasing services. When will SGA become more than just an overfunded club, with way too much office space and a support base lower than that of other student groups that actually do make a difference?

If you're an SGA member, pick up that ball that's been dropped and try to save this Titanic disaster. SGA can make a difference, but needs to seek out student support. Students are not apathetic; they are just waiting for some needed leadership. Better to enter the game in the last quarter than to never show up.

Matthew Leffler
Louisville sophomore

Punish sexual harassers

I completely agree with John Stamper's article, "Sexual Harassers Should Be Punished, Not Paid for Silence." I have never felt strongly enough to write a letter to the editor. However, I am really disappointed by the actions taken by President Gary Ransdell and General Counsel Deborah Wilkins.

The persons accused of and found guilty of sexual harassment were given the opportunity to resign and paid nothing, less. I do not understand the mentality behind this. Because this is an institution of higher learning, maybe Ransdell and Wilkins can teach their methodology in a class counting toward General Education.

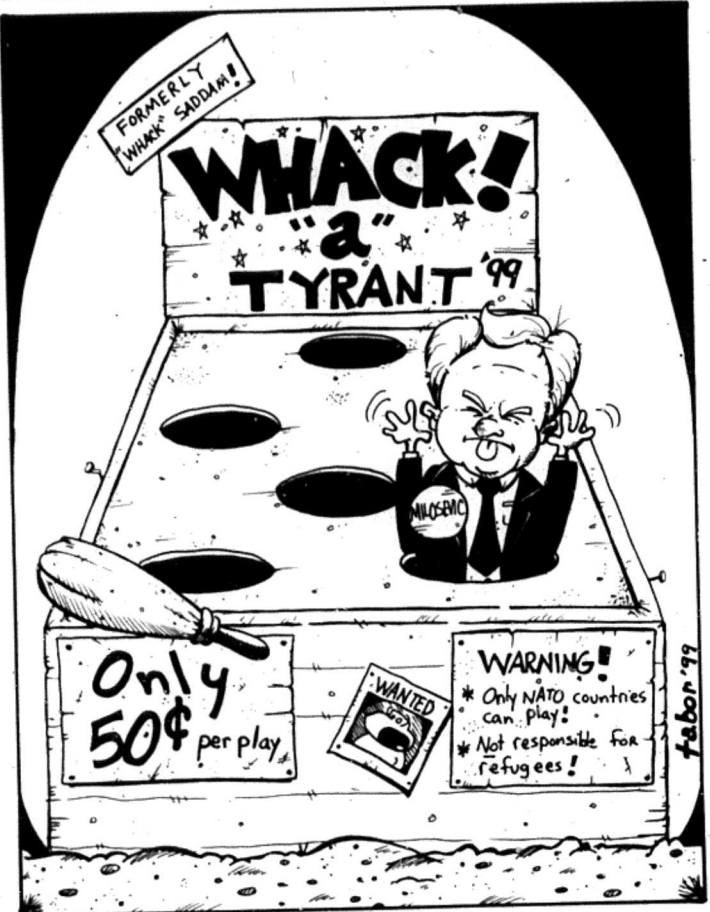

Sexual harassers need to be held accountable for what they have done. What about the victims? These are the people I feel sorry for, once again they are dealt the unjust hand. Shouldn't Western be looking for the best interests of the victims and potential victims?

If the student body at Western is composed of more women than men, what kind of message does this send out to the women of Western? We are apparently overlooked, our concerns must not be of any interest.

Why do victims of sexual crimes refuse to come forward? Because they are shown time and again that it makes no difference anyway. The guilty are never punished, and the victims carry the burden.

"Why do victims of sexual harassment refuse to come forward? Because they're shown time and time again it makes no difference anyway."

— Marybeth Haile
Elizabethtown senior

The students of Western are paying for an education in a safe, non-threatening environment. It is the responsibility of the administrators to provide this to us. I love this school, but I am disappointed by the administration's actions.

Marybeth Haile
Elizabethtown senior

Jones probe questionable

After a number of fliers circulated in most dorms throughout campus with the words "Vote for Will Jones in Racism" written in black ink, the Student Government Association began an investigation to determine if they were racially motivated.

When Brian Kuster, director of Housing and Residence Life, said the fliers only appeared to be addressed to black students, the question on everyone's minds was, "Who did it?"

Will Jones is the first black student to run for SGA president in years, according to the Herald, and was a prime suspect. Though he fully denies having anything to do with them, SGA is now in the process of reviewing evidence that may link Jones to the fliers.

My question is this: Is SGA conducting the investigation simply to follow proper procedures, or does race really speak louder than words?

Even though these fliers were addressed to black students on campus, according to Kuster, and even though Jones is a black male, that does not make him guilty of a faulty cause-and-effect fallacy like this that barricade our society from lowering the walls of racial discrimination.

Moreover, we cannot begin to understand others until we free ourselves from stereotypes such as one group always sticking together. Certainly, someone passed around fliers asking people to vote for Jones because he was black, but whoever did it has not progressed very far with racial understanding.

Unless the rest of society stops faulty assumptions, it will be a long time before the rest of us do as well.

Shaun Lockhart
Louisville sophomore

► Should frat presidents be arrested for the actions of their brothers?

"No. Whoever is causing whatever is wrong — they're responsible for themselves."

Linda Bowles
Morgantown senior

"No. They are not responsible for the individual."

Cara Hoglund
graduate student from Rockford, Ill.

"I would say if not the individual then the fraternity might be able to be held responsible."

Dale Johnson
Nashville graduate student

"No. I think each individual should be responsible for their own actions."

Sarah Tanner
Burlington sophomore

"Yes. You can't arrest the whole fraternity. There has to be somebody in charge."

Dennis Wheatley
Paducah senior

College Heights Herald

<http://herald.wku.edu>

John Stamper, Editor*
Shannon Back, Managing editor*
Matt Batchelder, Opinion editor*
Chris Tabor, Editorial cartoonist*
Dan Hieb, News co-editor*
Jerry Brewer, News co-editor*
Mikael Olmsted, Features editor*
Travis Mays, Sports editor*
Scott Sloice, Assistant sports editor*
Cara VanLeuven, Photo editor*
Rick Schell, Chief photographer
Charlie Lanter, Copy desk chief

Chris Covington, Advertising manager
Sean Carney, Ad production manager
Megan Holzapfel, Classifieds manager
Jason Widstrom, Online editor
Bob Adams, Herald adviser
JoAnn Thompson, Business manager

* Denotes Editorial Board members. Also on the editorial board: senior writer Mo'ly Harper.

Reaching us

Advertising: 745-6287
News/Features: 745-6011
Sports: 745-6291
Photo: 745-6289

E-mail: herald@wku.edu
Address: 122 Garrett Center,
Bowling Green, Ky. 42101
© 1999, College Heights Herald

Droddy's position questioned

Residency ordinance not followed

By SHANNON BACK
Herald reporter

Some city commissioners are raising questions about whether Western Professor J.D. Droddy's 1997 appointment to the Bowling Green Municipal Utilities Board was legal.

Bowling Green ordinance requires board members to be citizens for at least two years before they can be appointed. Droddy had lived in Bowling Green for only about one year before Mayor Eldon Renaud asked him to be on the board.

Droddy, a government assistant professor, said neither he nor Renaud was aware of the ordinance.

and the city commission didn't know about it when they approved my appointment in 1997," said Droddy, who is now seeking to be chairman of the committee.

"They're at fault, not me. I didn't try to hide anything. I told them when I moved here I didn't know about the ordinance. They should know, though, since it is their ordinance."

But commissioner and BGMU board member Sandy Jones said that doesn't matter.

"The fact that someone doesn't know about the law generally isn't an excuse for doing something improper or illegal," she said.

"The fact that they didn't know, or didn't take the time to find out, isn't my fault. The public has a right to trust public officials. When you can't trust that they'll do what's right, the public becomes uneasy."

At Monday night's BGMU meeting, Droddy implied that Jones can't be trusted. He said yesterday Jones and other commissioners hired an investigator and are trying to force him to resign from the board.

"They didn't need a detective to find that out," he said. "They could have just asked me."

"They're desperate people. They want me off that board."

After Droddy was named acting chairman Monday night, he delivered a 1 1/2-hour statement accusing Jones of unethical activity and of abusing her political power.

Droddy questioned Jones and accused her of trying to remove three of the other four board members, forcing the former chairman to resign, using taxpayers' money to hire private investigators to trail members and not reporting unethical decisions of BGMU managers.

He also asked Jones if she was trying to remove the director of the Chamber of Commerce so her husband — Martin Jones, director of existing industries for the Warren County Chamber of Commerce — could have the position.

Renaud has called for an ethics-committee investigation of Droddy's allegations.

He says some commissioners are just trying to stir controversy — because (the commissioners) are in trouble. The ethics violations are so serious that I would expect one or two to resign.

"I didn't know about the ordinance when I appointed (Droddy), and the commission didn't either. But the past commission did find out and they said they still thought he was an excellent choice — by that time he had already been here long enough."

It doesn't matter now, this isn't an issue.

More of an issue, Renaud said, is the misuse of power.

"It's such an abuse of power like I've never seen before. This sounds like something you'd hear about in another country. We'll just have to wait and see what the ethics committee says."

SPYING: Identification of suspects not released

CONTINUED FROM FRONT PAGE

the second report. Floor meetings were called at 10:30 p.m. on April 11 — the same day the second report was filed.

At the meeting, RAs described the incidents but would not describe the suspects. Nashville sophomore Elizabeth James said. The RAs said they weren't allowed to give a description for fear of encouraging false accusations, which was little reassurance.

"We live here in the dorm and they won't even tell us anything," James said.

But now signs are posted on some of the women's floors giving a description of a blond, white, male seen watching female residents shower. The signs urge female residents to travel in pairs and report unfamiliar, unaccompanied males to the front desk and the police, James said.

Signs on the exterior doors also urge residents and visitors to have patience with increased scrutiny and frequent identification checks.

For now, Residence Life cannot do much more. Kuster said beyond making sure exterior doors are locked and checking identification cards.

Future measures might include attaching a dorm label to students' identification cards, but Residence Life does not want to limit students' freedom in the cause of improving security, he said.

Greeks tug in points battle

By JIM GAINES
Herald reporter

At the height of Greek Week, this year's hoplites will struggle to maintain their tradition of determination not even a thundering hailstorm distracted them from 1998's grunting tug-of-war.

Bizarrely, despite last year's downpour, the central mud pit was relatively dry for the tug, the only competition of Greek Events Day to go off last year. But tomorrow's thunderstorms promise a squelching field of battle for 1999.

Eleven fraternities and seven sororities will each send eight of their stoutest members to yank eight rivals across a mud pit at the university farm. Student Activities Coordinator Charley Pride said.

Registration for the event begins at 11 a.m. The tug-of-war starts around 1 p.m. The event is moving from its spot in Smith Stadium to a soggy venue at Western's farm on Nashville Road, Pride said.

Last year's dry-gulch victors, Sigma Phi Epsilon, won't return, he said. 1998's runner-up, Alpha Gamma Rho, may have the chance to claim the top spot.

But among the sororities, Phi

Mu returns to defend its dirty crown.

The tug-of-war is the nastiest, but far from the only opportunity for fraternities and sororities to accumulate points during the Greek Week festivities. The points will be totaled and a winner will be announced Sunday.

If you go

What: Greek Week Tug
When: 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., tomorrow
Where: WKU Farm, 4660 Nashville Road

Events continue today

By BRITTANY LONG
Herald reporter

This afternoon, as Greek Week continues, fraternities and sororities will compete for points, fun, and bragging rights at the annual Greek Events Day.

And during activities like the dizzy bat race and the three-legged race, students may be staggering across the finish line.

The event is a like a field day. Other events include the penny toss, the bed race, the egg toss, the water relay, piggy-back race, wheel barrel race, the Greek atholon and the slip-n-slide-to-the-pie race.

Today's weather should be better than last year's — when the event was ended by hail storms. Check-in for Greek Events Day begins at 3 p.m. on DUC south lawn, and the first events are expected to begin around 3:30 p.m. It is open to all students.

Owensboro junior Ben Clark, a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, suggests non-Greek students attend the event.

"It might open their eyes up to maybe going Greek," he said. "There's other things to being Greek than partying."

Greek organizations are competing all week to claim the Greek Week title, which will be awarded at 7 p.m. Sunday at DUC Theatre.

CENTER: Situation complex, confusing

CONTINUED FROM FRONT PAGE

Development District's Aging Services.

This contract takes effect July 1 and includes $89,000 in state grants — enough to care for 12 of the center's clients. CHC says the contract also includes a certificate of need from the state, which is required to operate the service. The city decides who gets the certificate, which can only go to one organization. Western thinks the contract and the certificate are separate issues.

"I think that's questionable," said the center's director, Jeanne Robertson. "No one ever told us that. If it was the rule, we should have had it in writing."

Jane Arnold, staff assistant at the Certificate of Need Office in Frankfort, was reluctant to try to make sense of what she called a complex, confusing situation. But she did say if CHC wanted to relocate or assume operation of the center, the company would have to buy the certificate of need from Bowling Green.

CHC public relations manager Bill Oldham said he doesn't think his company will have to purchase the certificate.

"We see it as meaning the certificate of need and the aging services contract go hand in hand," he said. "The group on campus doesn't see it that way. We're trying to find out what the next step should be."

Robertson said she was pleased to see CHC get the contract. Her concern is how this will affect the care for clients who pay for their care privately.

CHC could apply for its own certificate through the state, but Robertson said that could leave 12 patients without care until December, or the city of Bowling Green could decide to give the certificate of need to CHC's center, which would mean Western's center would have to close.

"The city could decide to fire us, which wouldn't make any sense," Robertson said. "We've become a nationally recognized program. If the city did give our CON away, it would put 18 people out of work."

Oldham said CHC's main concern is insuring the best possible care for patients. It is looking to work with Western to keep the facility on campus for that reason.

"We see the advantages of using Western's facility," he said. "First it would be a lot easier on the patients. At their age, they don't like a lot of change. We don't want to disrupt that care. We would also like to keep the students that work at the center on staff."

Robertson said she would like to see CHC opening its own center in Bowling Green, so clients would be served even better.

"There would be no advantage to joining together," she said. "I fight for space every day. That wouldn't benefit the clients. With two centers, people would be given a choice. Competition is a healthy thing."

SHOWCLOCK

Don't know if the movie you want to see is playing in Bowling Green? Find out every Thursday with the Weekend Showclock College Heights Herald

FAST FREE DELIVERY!

Delivering The Perfect Pizza!

Now Hiring Delivery Drivers

Apply in person at 1922 Russellville Rd. & 390 31-W Bypass

782-0888

1922 Russellville Road Delivering to WKU and Vicinity

HOURS

Mon.-Sat. 10:30 a.m. - 1 a.m.
Sun. 11:30 a.m. - 1 a.m.

782-9911

390 31-W Bypass and Scottsville Road Vicinity

HOURS

Sun.-Thurs. 10:30 a.m. - 12 a.m.
Fri.-Sat. 11:30 a.m. - 1 a.m.

2 Large 2 Toppings $14.99 plus tax exp. 5-9-99 chh

Small 1 Topping & Breadsticks $8.99 plus tax exp. 5-9-99 chh

Large 1 Topping $6.99 plus tax exp. 5-9-99 chh

Large 1 Topping & Cheese Sticks $10.99 plus tax exp. 5-9-99 chh

Anderson leaving a legacy

By ERIN WILKINS
Herald reporter

Charles Anderson had a vision for the future of Western's technology. Thirty years ago, computers were pure fantasy and a video production room didn't give those interested in broadcasting much hands on experience. E-mail was a concept that was almost unthinkable.

Three decades, and a television and radio station later, Anderson has decided it is time to leave Western.

At a reception Tuesday at south campus, Anderson, vice president of Information Technology, was honored by friends and colleagues for his 32 years of service at Western. A Charles M. Anderson scholarship was also set up to commemorate the administrator's work.

Charles Anderson

Anderson helped develop Western's television station, WKYT-TV, about 10 years ago, and was instrumental in the development of the radio station, WKYT-FM. He worked with others to make Western's computers the first to be completely networked in the state and to establish TOPLINE and the campus cable system.

Anderson arrived at Western as a student in 1960. After earning a master's degree at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and completing a doctorate at Indiana University, he returned to the Hill as a teacher in 1967.

Anderson said he was extremely pleased friends, colleagues and former students came to say goodbye at the reception Tuesday. Anderson also said presenting the scholarship in his name was the best legacy he could leave Western.

"I have been fortunate to work with some very talented people, and I am leaving behind some talented people to keep Western on the leading edge of technology," Anderson said.

Anderson plans to pursue entrepreneurship after he leaves Western by running a radio station he has been building that will serve south central Kentucky and be on air in May.

Jerry Barnaby, station manager for WKYT-TV, said Anderson laid the groundwork for much of the technology Western uses today.

"He had the unique ability of telling us where he wanted to be and getting us there," Barnaby said. "He could look at the resources on hand and get the people and equipment in place."

Some of Anderson's former students also greeted him at the reception. Fred McCoy was a student in Anderson's classes in the late '60s and eventually worked with him.

McCoy, now vice president of Broadcast Merchandising Corporation in Bowling Green, said Anderson is highly respected in the broadcasting industry and he always encouraged Anderson to leave Western to pursue other goals.

"He wouldn't leave because he had a lot of love for Western students, even though he had other opportunities to explore," he said.

FASHION: Cultures combine on catwalk

Continued from Front Page

has had an international week. Since then it has been simply an international day.

This year the directors envisioned something more.

The preparation

In halting English, Xiaoyun "Jenny" Li, a visiting scholar from China and technical director of the show, described the preparation for the program.

"We search the whole campus and interview model candidates," Li said. "Very hard, the students have very different schedules. I show them how to walk, to pose and how to organize fashion show."

Li, who worked as a model in China, is the former director of a Chinese modeling company. For Tuesday's performance she spent countless hours teaching the models how to strut their stuff. When the time came, she took care of the mass confusion backstage. She even managed to grace the catwalk a few times herself.

"I don't get nervous about myself," Li confessed. "But tonight I worry so much about the students, the sequence I worry so much, I did not eat."

Mark O'Brien, a freshman from Cayo, Belize, admitted being a little nervous about the performance too.

"I was nervous when I first got out there, but after I got onto the floor it was great," O'Brien said. "This is the first time I have done anything like this."

The catwalk

"LaVonna is in a classic French halter top that ties at the neck," rang Shailen Bhatt's voice as Louisville sophomore LaVonna Watkins posed at the end of the catwalk.

Bhatt, a sophomore from Canada, and Bowling Green junior Melissa Meagher were chosen through an audition as the masters of ceremonies at the show.

During the hour-long fashion exposé, 40 North American outfits and 60 outfits from Africa, Asia, South America, Central America and Europe decorated the runway. The models were as varied as the costumes they wore: they came from all over the world.

Tiawanda Chitapa, a freshman from Bulawayo, Zimbabwe, modeled six different outfits, but he said the Middle Eastern clothing was his favorite.

"I like it because it stands out," he explained. "It's unique."

Back stage

To anyone sitting in the audience, the run way models looked like pros. They were confident. They were stunning.

But the moment they passed back through the curtain, the mad rush to get the next person ready enveloped them. Colorful garments laid on chairs. There were curling irons, bobby pins and mateless socks.

Louisville freshman Chrissy Dunn rounded the corner, and in record time, she had her high-heeled shoes off. Ann Frances Hoover, a junior from Franklin, Tenn., slid them onto her feet and walked on stage. They didn't miss a beat.

That kind of flow can only come from extensive planning. A large tack board helped everyone backstage keep his or her outfits straight. It had a picture of all 100 outfits in numerical order. Models waiting their turn for the stage helped others get ready. The music in the back was broken by loud whispers. "Pin this for me." Or "Where's my shoe?"

Chinyere "Chi Chi" Oghonna McGruder, adviser for the Study Abroad program, helped organize the show. She, like Li, modeled and helped out backstage. Many of the clothes were from her personal collection, although some were on loan from department stores like Jay Jacobs, J.C. Penny and J.C. Penney. Other students and faculty also donated authentic costumes.

McGruder wanted to introduce a little diversity to Bowling Green.

"I just wanted everyone to catch a little glimpse of everyday dress in other cultures," she said.

The experience

Bruni greeted McGruder with a hug backstage after the show, saying only one word: "Wonderful!"

Other than a few small glitches, Bruni said, the show went as planned. The audience and the models got the chance to experience a world different from their own.

John Petersen, associate vice president of academic programs and personnel, talked about how technology was bringing the world closer together. He said he hoped that people would leave the show with a new understanding of other cultures — cultures that we are now coming face to face with.

"When the world gets smaller, understanding needs to get bigger," Petersen said. "I welcome what's happening tonight."

Big Red Mascot 1999-2000 Tryouts

Mandatory Orientation Meeting
Monday, April 19 at 8:00 p.m.
ROOM 218 OF DIDDLE ARENA
Actual Tryouts Monday, April 26th

- Open to any full-time WKU student
- Must be in good standing with WKU
- Must Maintain a 2.0 GPA
- Must be a high-energy individual
- Must be creative
- Some athletic ability needed
- Requires time management skills

• ONE POSITION AVAILABLE
• Successful Big Red will receive a $500 scholarship per semester

For applications or further information come by 152 Diddle Arena or call 745-6562

All my friends donate!

Donating Plasma, you sit back in a lounge chair & read, study, talk or dream in a place filled with friends. In 60 min. you're up & away, cash in hand.

Bowling Green Biologicals
410 Old Morgantown Rd.
793-0425

Come...it's that easy.

Earn $45 in the 1st week

You don't have to visit your parents to get a decent meal.

Come in Thursday night and get $2.00 off our large buffalo platter complete with golden-fried boneless chicken and covered with buffalo-style hot sauce. Served with celery sticks, ranch dressing and Southwestern fries. And to put out the fire, try our famous Margaritas for only $1.99.

TUMBLEWEED

Southwest Mesquite Grill & Bar
1780 Scottsville Rd. Bowling Green

$2.00 OFF

MARGARITAS
$1.99

Barf, Bodies & Booze

Banshee, 'The biggest party in the South,' will take Western on a wild ride this Saturday

Chastity Spencer, dances through the crowd at 1996's Banshee. The party continued until 3:30 a.m. 4,400 attended.

STORY BY LEIGH ANN MOORE ♦ FILE PHOTO BY CHAD STEVENS

Men gawk at bare-breasted women walking through the crowd. Beer suds and bottles fly through the air. A guy whips it out and urinates on the ground. A kaleidoscope of smells — urine, puke, pot, dirt — hang in the warm spring air. Music blares. Rules are left at the door.

People get freaky, get drunk, get laid. In the open.

And it all happens one night at the party of the year.

'The Biggest Party in the South'

Every spring, party-goers flock to Bowling Green from around the region to attend what has, at times, been labeled "The biggest party in the South." North of Panama City, Fla., that is.

The event began in 1980, as a closing celebration to the rugby team's Banshee Classic Tournament.

The rugby team rented out the National Guard Armory, bought several kegs of beer and threw one hell of a party.

"I attended one year when I was a sophomore, and that was enough for me," said Gene Crume, director of the Alumni Association. Crume was an undergraduate student at Western in the late 80s. "I saw some things I wouldn't care to mention in a family newspaper."

He gave a little laugh. Crume said they ranged from "elephant dances to people standing outside and not drinking anything."

Curious about the elephant dance thing? Think naked men in a circle. Holding hands. Through their legs. Got it?

That's only a portion of the insanity at Banshee. There's also the old tradition of the "flaming hole."

Someone gets naked, sticks a piece of toilet paper in his rear-end, lights it, then jumps off the roof of a vehicle.

Smart, no. Crazy, yes.

And that's what Banshee is: Dropping drawers as fast as Jell-O shots. Not just loosening inhibitions, but ripping them off in the name of a party. Having sex like rabbits. Drinking and

If you go

What: Banshee

When: 6 p.m.-2 a.m., Saturday

Where: Beech Bend Raceway Park

Admission: $10

doing drugs until the world becomes a rippling wave of color — usually the color of that chewed-up McDonald's burger from dinner.

Wet, Wild and Wasted

In 1989, Banshee featured 60 kegs of beer and attracted an estimated 2,500 people, according to a Herald article.

That same year, a Murray State freshman fell from the rafters of the armory and bruised a bone in her neck. That prompted the rugby club to move the party to Beech Bend Raceway Park the following year.

"People were always climbing on the rafters naked," said Matt Hawes, a 1993 graduate of Western.

Glasgow junior J.D. Steenberg attended Banshee two years ago, the last big one held here.

"It was fun," he said. "There was a lot of noise, a lot of alcohol. Stuff got tore up. It was kind of wild."

Last year, rain held off the thousands of people — as many as 4,000 — who usually attend Banshee. Only a few hundred showed up. But that hasn't lowered expectations for this year.

The Legend

The Banshee myth seems to grow more every year.

No one knows for sure who plans Banshee anymore. Now, a fier appears with a place and a time. And the party explodes.

"In urban folklore, there's this thing called spontaneous human combustion," Crume said. "This is a spontaneous human party and sometimes there is combustion."

But, said Crume, a lot of that combustion is probably hype.

"It's no fun to go to a big party and tell your friends you stood around drinking," he said. "Parties like this are bigger than life. It's 90 percent what people want you to believe and 10 percent what really happened."

When Crume visits with alumni, some will ask if Western's still having Banshee. Then, they drift off into remembrances of their party days.

"The older you get, the better your stories become," Crume said.

Even if some of Banshee's magic is hype, there's a lot that's not. No one can deny people at Banshee cut loose.

"You imagined it, you saw it as far as the way people acted," Hawes said. He attended Banshee "three or four times at least" when he attended Western.

"I'm sure it's quite a bit tamer now."

The Legacy

Recently, the rugby team has tried to sever its ties to Banshee in the hopes of revamping its image in the eyes of Western's administration.

"This year we're not even associated with it," said Steenberg, a first semester rugby player. "We don't want to mess things up or lose our charter."

The rugby team says it isn't even hosting this year's tournament because the community associates it with the out-of-control partying.

After all, even the rugby team has to worry about litigation. A bruised bone could land a person a debut showing on "Judge Judy." And the police will be homing in on Beech Bend this weekend like a hawk on a mouse.

In the past, the rugby team was blamed for the trouble. The team is hoping that'll change.

"We're becoming a respectable sports team, and we're trying to do things the right way for once," said Carlos Conde, a freshman from Gainesville, Fla., and president of the team.

Still, the aura exists. Remember the elephant dance? Crume said that was "rugby players being rugby players."

Even if no one claims it, Banshee is a part of Western heritage.

Henry Hardin Cherry may roll over in his grave when he sees what his students will do Saturday at Beech Bend.

Then again, some students may see a Cherry, naked, jump off a van by the end of the night.

Horror authors headline book fest

John Carpenter and R.L. Stine come to town

By CHRIS HUTCHINS
Herald reporter

The rumors you've been hearing in class for the last two weeks are true.

Former Bowling Green resident John Carpenter, screenwriter and director of Halloween and more than 20 other films, is going to be in town this weekend. And so is horror novelist R.L. Stine, best known for his scary Goosebumps children's book series. And you can meet them. For free.

90 authors coming

What: Southern Kentucky Festival of Books

When: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Saturday, Noon to 5 Sunday

Where: Bowling Green/Warren County Convention Center

Admission: Free

Their visits are part of the Southern Kentucky Festival of Books, being held this weekend at the Bowling Green/Warren County Convention Center. Organized by University Libraries, Barnes & Noble Booksellers and the city's public library, the event should be the biggest splash this side of the Mississippi. That's what Earlene Chelf thinks, anyway.

"We're just so excited to have both of them come," the coordinator of University Libraries and special events said. "Carpenter is such an accomplished man, and Stine is a hit with the kids. This should be a lot of fun."

Carpenter and Stine aren't the only writers showing up. Meet the man who's written about Spike Lee, Rosa Parks, Louis Farrakhan and other trailblazing black Americans. He's Jim Haskins, a prolific and award-winning author. He'll be signing books and giving presentations.

About 85 more authors are going to be at the festival. Are you a fan of thrillers? Twin sisters Beverly Taylor, Herald and Barbara Taylor McCafferty — authors of "Double Cross" — are going to be there. How about food? Cookbook writers Natoma Riley and Verne Louise Dobbs are popping in. There are some Gothic novelists showing up, and historians, and sports writers and poets and musicians and

You get the idea. At least Chelf hopes you do. She, and 150 other people, have been spending the last year organizing the event.

"People think there is a big mystique surrounding people who write books," she said. "But here's a rare opportunity to meet a favorite author. That's a special occasion. Even if there's only one author who interests you, it's worth coming for a few minutes."

Five children's authors — not including Stine — will be on hand to meet kids, sign books and lead activities just for them.

There'll be music, too. Tommy

SEE FESTIVAL, PAGE 8

HEY YOU! Wanna job next semester? The Herald is now accepting applications for all positions. Stop by the office and fill out an application. 122 Garrett

Sports

Andrew Otto/Herald

Swimmer Travis Mandigo, a senior from Houston, was named Western's 1999 Male Athlete of the Year after leading the Hilltoppers to an undefeated regular season and second place finish in the National Independent Conference Championships.

Above the water

Athlete of the Year

by Lyndsay Sutton

FIRST IN A TWO-PART SERIES

It didn't happen very often in Travis Mandigo's four-year career as a swimmer at Western. But when it did — when the 5-7 senior found someone he was taller than — Mandigo made sure he capitalized on the moment.

While Mandigo proved throughout the years that he could more than hold his own in the water — he was a finalist every year at the National Independent Conference (NIC) Championships — he still failed to stand head and shoulders above the rest, literally.

So when the shortest swimmer on Western's team finally met a swimmer shorter than himself at the Miami Invitational, he rejoiced.

"I was so excited," Mandigo said. So excited that he stood beside the guy and told Western coach Bill Powell to take a picture. Mandigo went so far as to make sure longtime Western swimming fan Doc Brown caught the event on videotape.

"It wasn't even funny," Mandigo said. "I was a good three, four inches taller."

Three or four inches didn't matter to the seven-member selection committee for Western's 1999 Male Athlete of the Year. Mandigo's performance in the pool and classroom were sufficient.

"He's one of the best swimmers we've ever had here at Western," committee chairwoman Dixie Mahurin said. "He's the best of the best."

The award was a welcome surprise to Mandigo, one of three men's captains this year, who helped guide the Hilltoppers to an undefeated regular season.

"I'm shocked," he said. "That's like the best thing that could've happened to me."

Powell was pleased not only to see Mandigo receive the award, but also to see him become the fifth swimmer in Western history to win it. Assistant coach Steve Crocker won the title in 1985. Powell's son, Dan, was the last swimmer to win the award, winning it in 1988.

"We're very happy for Travis," Powell said. "He's been a joy to have around."

Mandigo was an All-American in both swimming and water polo at Clear Lakes High School in Houston. His high school swimming squad was undefeated in both district and regional championships all four years. He advanced to the state meet his senior year after winning the 100 butterfly in the region. There, Mandigo broke the school record in the event, a record held since 1970.

With each of his accomplishments, Mandigo was confident he could swim on the Division I level. Using the book "Swimming in Colleges," he researched schools and mailed letters to programs of interest, including Western.

Powell responded, impressed with Mandigo's state championship performance. It helped, too, that Mandigo's high school coach, Tom Landgraaf, was a friend of Powell's.

"It's such a small world," Mandigo said. Through all his recruiting trips, Mandigo said he found no other team as close as Western's or any coach as personable as Powell.

"If I had it to do over again, I'd be here in a heartbeat," Mandigo said.

Mandigo has been a part of two undefeated teams and two second place finishes at the NIC championships, in his sophomore and senior years at Western.

"We really needed good leadership this year and he gave it," Powell said.

His leadership, coupled with experience and enthusiasm, made him a valuable asset to the team. Junior Kicker Vencill said that was one of the reasons he wanted Mandigo to swim on the 800 freestyle relay team.

"When (Mandigo) swam, he really swam," Vencill said. "You could always count on him in a relay."

And even though Mandigo will not take to the starting blocks for Western anymore, he will still be helping out at Western. The English major won't graduate in May and will work with the swim team in a volunteer capacity starting in the fall.

Once he graduates, Mandigo would like to live in Arizona and work as a high school English teacher in addition to being the school's swimming and water polo coach.

"If I can do that I'll be happy," Mandigo said. As for now, he'll compete in the 100 butterfly this summer at the USA Nationals in Minnesota. He missed qualifying for the 100 backstroke by five-tenths of a second.

"My goal is to just keep going as much as possible," Mandigo said.

Errors propel Western

Baseball wins fourth straight game

By Scott Sisco
Herald reporter

If Western hadn't scored three unearned runs Tuesday the baseball game might have lasted all night, stuck at a 3-3 tie. Both pitching staffs seemed to be holding the batters and making the outs when they needed to.

But the unearned runs were there and Western (19-16, 9-9) came out on top of Middle Tennessee State 6-3.

Western junior Jay Meyer (2-1) pitched 6 1/3 innings, allowing four hits, two runs and two walks while striking out nine for the win in his first start of the season.

Western coach Joel Murrie said he expected to get about four innings out of Meyer. He said he has seen a lot of good things out of his pitchers in the last four games.

"We're taking control of the game on the mound," Murrie said. "At this point, I just want our club to come out and prove their ability and do the little things that win games. We did the little things at the right time."

Even with five errors, the Blue Raiders (12-20) weren't out of the game. Middle Tennessee coach Steve Peterson said his pitching staff kept them in the game. He was especially impressed with starting pitcher freshman Kyle Sparkman.

"Five errors, you're not supposed to be in the ball game."

SEE ERRORS, PAGE 10

Tennis gears for Sun Belt

By Malcolm Knox
Herald reporter

In a new location and climate, Western's tennis team hopes it will be able to do the same thing it has been doing since October — win.

The fifth-seeded Hilltoppers (26-2) begin play in the Sun Belt Conference tournament today at noon in hot, humid Mobile, Ala., against No. 4 seed Arkansas Little Rock (7-8).

"This match against UALR will be brutal," Coach Jeff True said.

Senior Beau Sparks is looking forward to a strong finish for the team. Sparks is the team's only senior and is 22-4 in singles matches this season. This could be the last match of his collegiate career.

"I hadn't thought about it

SEE TENNIS, PAGE 10

Wells may sign with Hilltoppers

Todd Central senior Mike Wells is expected to sign to play basketball for Western at a press conference tomorrow. The guard, brother of former Austin Peay star and current NBA player Bubba Wells, averaged 22 points last season, leading his team to the 13th District crown. He is Todd Central's all-time leading scorer.

— Travis Mayo

ERRORS: Indians next for Western

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 9

Peterson said. Defensively, we didn't support him at all. I can't fault our pitching at all.

Sparkman was in trouble in the third inning when an error by junior third baseman Josh Pride loaded the bases. He responded by striking out Western's junior left fielder Aaron Eaglesong to end the inning.

Pride was the only Blue Raiders to get a hit off Meyer. He smacked two doubles, one in the first inning and one in the fourth. He added a home run in the eighth inning for the Blue Raiders' last run of the game.

Junior shortstop Wes Whitehead had three errors, including one that allowed senior first baseman T.J. Freeman to score the first run of the game in the first inning.

Junior catcher Curtis Bliss and sophomore center fielder Matt Fox also scored when Whitehead kicked the ball into left field while fielding a ground ball in the seventh inning. The Blue Raiders had pulled within a run of the Hilltoppers before the error.

Freeman hit his ninth home run of the season, a solo shot over the right field wall that landed on University Boulevard, on the bottom of the eighth, to seal the game for the Hilltoppers. Freeman is hitting .357, just one thousandth of a point behind the Hilltoppers' leading hitter, senior left fielder Chris Yeo.

Western is riding a four-game winning streak, thanks in part to the pitching staff that has dominated opponents. Senior pitcher Nathan Isenberg (0-1) said they have been getting great performances from the starters.

"It's our job as relievers to keep the lead," Isenberg said. "We're giving our hitters a chance to stay in the ball game, and in this league (the Sun Belt Conference), pitching wins titles."

The Weekend

Western will look to duplicate last weekend's performance at Arkansas State (13-22, 3-14) Saturday and Sunday. The Hilltoppers took two out of three from the Indians in March in Bowling Green.

The teams are scheduled to play a doubleheader Saturday beginning at 2 p.m., and the third game will be Sunday at 1 p.m.

Track heads for Georgia

Western faces nationally-ranked Bulldogs

By LINDSAY SUTTON
Herald Reporter

Georgia (n) — Division I school with nationally-ranked track and field programs.

Translation for Western: a tough way to open head-to-head competition.

Western track and field coach Curtis Long is ready to see how the Hilltoppers stack up against nationally-ranked Georgia in Athens this weekend at the Georgia Invitational.

"They're one of the top teams in the country," Long said. "It's going to be a test."

The setup of this meet is the same as that for the Sun Belt Conference championships next month in Louisiana. Instead of concentrating heavily on fast times, Western is aiming to gain experience in going head-to-head against Georgia.

"We view this as a crash course in getting there (Sun Belt Conference)," Long said.

The women are still without junior Laura Wesseling, who has an inflamed tendon in her foot. Junior Valerie Lynch said that Wesseling competes in so many events, it's hard to compensate for her loss.

Long said it will be difficult to replace Wesseling in the long jump, but he expects the other athletes to step up in the relay events.

"That will hurt us significantly," Long said. "It's always nice to go into competition with your best athletes."

With or without Wesseling, Western's women will have NCAA 100-meter champion senior Debbie Ferguson to contend with. Long said Ferguson could contribute as many as 30 points to Georgia's efforts by competing in the 100 and 200-meter relays, as well as the short relay.

"She is very instrumental in the overall scheme of things for them," Long said.

The men will have just as tough a competition as will the women. Senior Iain Don-Wauchope said the meet will be a challenging one for the whole team since Georgia is one of the top teams in the Southeastern Conference and the nation.

"The whole team is going to have a tough time," Don-Wauchope said. While the Hilltoppers haven't been as strong in sprint events because of the loss of athletes to spring football, Don-Wauchope said Western should be stronger than Georgia in the distance events.

But the distance from those events to the Sun Belt is still a long one.

"We know we've got a long way to go in five to six weeks," Long said.

TENNIS: Women facing obstacle

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 9

much," Sparks said. "It's the kind of thing that kicks in after it's over."

After losing the final match of the regular season, Sparks said that he and his teammates are more focused than ever.

"Everybody realizes they have to play better and better," he said.

Women start tourney

Fresh from being named Sun Belt Conference players of the week, senior Inese Zverge was named one of six members of the all-conference team. Zverge posted the best record on the team in singles at 19-4 in the regular season.

She appreciated the individual recognition, but knows that it would have been impossible without her teammates.

"It was a nice surprise," Zverge said. "I couldn't ask it without them."

The Lady Toppers will also begin tournament play this afternoon. Their 13-10 record is the fifth-best of eight teams in the conference.

"It comes down to how much concentration and motivation we have," Zverge said.

During the regular season, only two matches were decided by one point, while 12 were settled by scores of 8-1 or 9-0.

Coach Laura Hudspeth knows her team will have to put up a supreme effort during the next three days to win it all.

"We would have to play absolutely out of our head," she said.

DO YOU SWING? Give A Quarter...

GoodTimes where cats are tossin kittens like balls on snap paddles

Don't be a square, stay on top of the newest craze that's "swinging" the nation each and every FRIDAY NIGHT at GoodTimes

- Free Lessons from 8-9
- Martini Specials
- $3 Cover

GoodTimes

1607 31-W By Pass, Bowling Green, KY 42101 (502) 846-2001

Get A Beer It's that Simple

Saturday Night Domestic Longnecks Only 25 Cents

from 8-11 p.m.

The Following Groups Would Like To Recognize These Outstanding Faculty Members During Greek Week 1999

Dr. Dorsey Grice - ΑΔΠ
Dr. Wayne Mason - ΑΟΠ
Dr. Joyce Wilder - ΑΓΔ
Tricia Harper - CERES
Dr. Joe Cangemi - ΧΩ
Dr. Jackie Pope - ΚΔ
Dr. Sandra Starks - ΦΜ
Dr. John Spurlock - ΣΚ
Dr. Todd Willin - ΑΓΡ

Dr. Ron Veenker - ΔΤΔ
Mr. James Kenney - ΚΑ
Dr. Jenks Britt - ΦΗ
Dr. Jim Brown - ΣΑΕ
Mr. Jim Highland - ΣΦΕ
Dr. Bart White - ΣΧ
Dr. Gene Crume - ΠΚΑ
Dr. Wade Ferguson - ΦΔΘ

College Heights Herald

Classifieds

*APARTMENTS*ROOMMATES*BUSINESS*FOR SALE*AUTOMOTIVE REPAIR*AUTOMOBILES*EMPLOYMENT*

Placing classifieds • Call 745-6287 or fax your ad to 745-2697.
 The price: $5.00 for first 15 words.
 • 25¢ each additional word.
 Deadline: Tuesday's paper on Friday at 4 p.m.
 • Thursday's paper on Tuesday at 4 p.m.

For Rent

One month free! 545Q Lost Circle
 2 bdrm apt. 1 1/2 bath, w/d hook-up, new paint & carpet. Rent
 $450, deposit $475. Call 782-4470
 M-F 8-5 for appointment.

TREAT YOURSELF! Completely furnished apts. off computer lab, washer & dryer, alarm systems, pool and etc. for only $249 (for a limited time only!).
 The Gables 846-1000

1801 Apartments next to campus. 2 bdrm., air, stove, refrigerator, dishwasher, w/d hook-up. $450/mo. + $300 deposit • lease. Call 781-4689

3 bdrm., 2 bath, central heat and air, w/d hook-up, 1354 Center St.
 $575/mo. Efficiency Apt. 710
 Cabell 9225/mo. 781-8307

Super summer savings! Now taking applications for 1,2,3 & 4 bedroom apartments. Nice, clean, close to campus. Most with utilities paid. References & deposit required. No pets. Many units discounted up to 30% through June, July & August of '99. Call 782-9486 while they last!

THE END IS NEAR - MAY 5 -
LAST DAY OF FINALS and you need a place to live. We have the perfect spot. Pool, tennis and sand volleyball. Most utilities paid, too! Pre-leasing now for May through August move in. 1 & 2 bdrms. 5 minutes to campus. Call to learn more.
 781-5471

2 blocks from WKU - efficiency, gas heat. $240/mo. + some utilities & deposit. Phone 842-6674

Attention Summer School
Students! House for rent - across the tracks from McCormack Hall. 2 bdrms. 1 1/2 baths, large kitchen, washer and dryer hook-up, gas heat. Don't miss this one! Call (502) 659-0530 for details.

St. James Apartments - Sublease for the summer. 2 bdrms available. Call 846-1477

Great summer housing!! $350/mo
 No deposit, all utilities paid. One bedroom, partially-furnished, close to school. No pets. Please call • 780-9528 for more info

2 nice 2 bdrm apts. close to Thompson Complex. $350 &
 $375/mo. 624 E. 14th St. No pets. 782-355 or call 791-7354

7 room house, clean, quiet, w/d hook-up, lots of extras. No pets or parties. $400+ deposit and utilities. 796-8484 leave name and number.

FOR RENT Banquet Hall, staging, tents, tables, chairs, dance floor,
 DJ systems, lighting, foggers, karaoke systems, wireless microphones, sumo wrestling, bungee run, bouncy boxing inflatables, MUCH, MUCH MORE. All at Hooks Sounds 782-1172.

Cottage with large yard available immediately. Suitable for three students. Clean and freshly painted. New stove and refrigerator, carpet and window treatments,
 w/d hook-up, central heat and air.
 $550 monthly, deposit required.
 Call 842-6720

1 bdrm. apt. close to WKU. 1400
 Park St. $250/mo. all utilities paid
 $200 deposit. No pets. Call 563-
 2012 or 792-9167

Got something to sell?
 Call Herald Classifieds
 at 745-6287.

Business Services

PAC-RAT'S

NOW PAYING UP TO $6.25 ON SELECTED CD RELEASES!

Bowling Green's great record & comics store! Buying & selling compact discs, tapes, records & comics - thousands in stock! Also video games, movies, Magic Cards & role playing games, posters, stickers, incentive & much more!
 1051 Bryant Way, behind
 Wendy's on Scottsville Road
 782-8092 Open 7 days

ONE STOP HELP

Resume Service
 Your link to landing the perfect job. One on one, confidential, no experience of the same • 781-0222
 Ask for Kaye

Box of Rocks

New, used, live & import CDs, incense, oils, candles, posters & prints, stickers, patches, t-shirts, books, magic, beads and jewelry.
 We pay up to $6 for your CDs.

917 Broadway 793-9743

OPEN Sundays

For Sale

Books for sale. Very interesting.
 Write Romance 101
 502 Scholar Ct. Edgewood, MD
 21040.

Help Wanted

Help Wanted Part-time and full-time positions available. flexible hours, competitive wages, fun working environment. Apply in person at Aqua Land Pool, Spa & Patio. 1260 Campbell Lane
 Bowling Green, KY 42104

Summer Jobs Love the outdoors? Want to work with children? Cumberland Valley Camps in Tennessee offer competitive salaries, room & board, fabulous programs & a chance to do something positive with your summer.
 Call Dave Strunk 1-800-395-5318
 ext. 252 or e-mail
 gscouts@edge.net

The College Heights Herald is now accepting applications for all advertising positions and systems manager.

COUNSELORS

Looking for a challenge working with adolescents? Three Springs
 Paint Rock Valley Residential Treatment Center is seeking individuals who are committed to helping others grow by being a positive role model in a wilderness setting. These individuals must possess a good work-ethic, be enthusiastic and open to learning new ideas. Must possess strong leadership skills as well as excellent people skills.
 Backpacking and canoeing experience a plus. Excellent benefits and good starting salary. Room for advancement. Bachelor's Degree required. Send resume or call: Dann Geiger,
 Three Springs Inc. P.O. Box 20
 Trenton, AL 35774
 Tel. (256) 776-2503
 (www.threesprings.com)

Help Wanted

SUMMER CAMP COUNSELORS & INSTRUCTORS for private co-ed youth camp located in the beautiful mountains of Western North Carolina. Over 25 activities including all sports, water skiing, heated pool, tennis, art, horseback, go-karts. 6/15-8/16. earn $1350-$1750 plus room, meals, laundry & great fun! No smoking.
 Call for brochure/ application:
 1-800-832-5539 or e-mail ccppinewood@aol.com anytime!

Cumberland Valley Camps.
 Summer resident camps located near Nashville Tennessee. Many counselor and director positions available including equestrian, high-adventure, water front, arts & crafts, and health care staff.
 Competitive salaries and room/board. Internship/ college credit possible. Call 1-800-395-5318
 ext. 252 or e-mail
 gscouts@edge.net

Lifeguards, coaches, swim instructors. USA Pools, Inc. is now hiring in Louisville, Lexington, Cincinnati, Nashville, Atlanta and all surrounding areas. Top pay at country clubs, neighborhoods, resorts & parks. Call today! (502) 254-5551 or
 (888) 357-POOL

Cashier needed 11:45 a.m. - 6 p.m. Mon. - Fri. & every Sat. 7:30 a.m. - 4 p.m. $6/hr. Napa Auto Parts 230 6th Ave. Apply within or call 843-4384

Bookkeeper wanted accounting major 9 hrs. of accounting needed
 Part-time
 United Furniture
 843-6101

Perfect Part-time Job

Individual(s) needed
 now in Oakland area to work part-time as Recreation Support
Person for man, age 30, with physical disabilities.

Approximately 15-20 hours weekly. Some of his interests include sports activities, bowling, tractor pulls, farm machinery shows, enjoys being outdoors. Duties include: having fun, providing transportation and minimal physical support on recreational outings.
 Lifting not required.

Starting pay is $8/hourly. All recreation expenses paid.
 Schedule is very flexible. To apply contact:
Mr. Jimmy Thomas
5820 Bristow Road
Oakland, KY 42159
Call 502-563-2473

Help Wanted

Loving babysitter needed in my home for three small boys. 7:30-3:30 this summer, and 20-30 hours (somewhat flexible) this fall.
 Must have a car, have references and not smoke. $6/hour. Cyndi 793-0499

Leisure Support
Persons & Community Resource Developers

Individuals needed immediately in the Cave City/Glasgow area to provide recreational support to persons with developmental disabilities on an individualized basis. Qualifications include High School diploma and valid driver's license.
 Previous experience with individuals with disabilities preferred.
 Must be willing to work flexible part-time schedule. Please submit letters of interest or resumes
 to:

David Wheeler
LifeSkills, Inc.
1514 Westen Ave.
Bowling Green, KY
42104
502-842-2274

Help Save Affordable Housing
AmeriCorps*VISTA Positions

The Homeless and Housing Coalition of Kentucky is currently seeking applicants for three positions. These positions provide opportunities for community development and organizing in the ongoing effort to preserve affordable housing in the Commonwealth. The positions pay a subsistence stipend and include an educational award or a bonus upon completion of a year of service, healthcare, and other benefits.

Those interested should send a cover letter and resume to HHCK VISTA, 229 W. Main Street, Suite 105, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 or fax to (502) 226-4968. Call (502) 223-1834 for more information.

Santa Fe
STEAKS•RIBS•FAJITAS

Bowling Green's Hottest New Restaurant concept is now taking applications for all positions. We are looking for bright, energetic people who enjoy having fun while they work. If this sounds like you, stop by and talk to us.

We will be taking applications
 Monday - Saturday from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. at 247 Three Springs Road next to the Hampton Inn.

YOGI BEAR'S
JELLYSTONE PARK
CAMP & RESORTS.

- Seasonal Staff Positions are open in these areas:
 - Reservationist
 - General Office workers
 - Retail Store Cashiers
 - Recreational Leaders
 - Housekeeping Help
 - Landscaping and Grounds
 - Waitresses/Waiters/Cooks
 - General Maintenance Workers

Yogi Bear's Jellystone Park
 1002 Mammoth Cave Rd.
 Cave City, KY 42124
 502-773-2897 or 502-773-3840

Members of our Jellystone Staff have the opportunity to meet and work with people from all over the country and sometimes the world. Join our team for an interesting experience and a great place to work. Apply by sending your resume to the above address or call the phone numbers listed for further information.

Salary dependent upon past experiences. We also have some housing available for staff.

Fishing season looks good

The turkey season is in full swing and I hope that all of you had a tremendous first few days. I have heard numerous stories of successes and almost. It seems that everyone is having a good season so far.

I got my first bird early on opening morning. Good weather is a blessing and I had plenty of it. I hope that the sun stays out and warm weather sticks around.

Turkey season is not all that is going on right now. Fishing is in full swing and anglers are breaking the water with regularity these days.

I have yet to hit the water but am planning a bass outing with Scott Gaines, from the Daily News, very soon.

The lake report is looking good.

"Crappie are hitting the cover on river channels," Gaines said.

He's been using a 32 oz jig at two to eight feet of water. The light jig sinks slow this is good "because 99.9 percent of the time they hit when the bait is falling," Gaines said.

He thinks the crappie will be moving into the mouths of

GRASS ROOTS
Jed Conklin

coves and stake beds to spawn. According to Gaines, the bass are hitting crank baits over the flats along stumps at about six to 14 feet of water.

The hybrids are driving the bait fish to the surface and the gulls are diving to catch the small fish.

"You usually have to throw a whole lot so its cool that the gulls show you the spots," Gaines said.

He recommends a shad colored Bandit Minnow or a Rapala Ristrop.

With all the rain during the last week, the rivers are running a little muddy. The fish are going to hit better with clearer conditions, so if fishing is on the agenda, watch the water clarity.

If water is your thing but fishing is not what you are after, then a float trip on some of the region's gorgeous rivers and creeks is right up your alley.

Junior Wayne Shaw and freshman Linda Smith, both of Oldham County, are planning a float down the Green River in Mammoth Cave.

Does this adventurous duo have a canoe? No, they are renting one from Preston Health and Activities Center just like you can, for a very reasonable cost. Contact Preston for more details at 745-5217.

For additional Mammoth Cave canoeing information, you can contact Green River Canoeing for self guided and guided tours. Just call (502) 597-2031. You can also contact Barren River Canoeing at (502) 796-1979.

Whatever you do for spring entertainment, do it safely and have fun. The only thing you need to worry about is coming back so you can have another grand adventure.

Comments? Questions? E-mail Jed at Jed4UN99@aol.com

WESTERN SPORTS SCORECARD

Team	W-L	Next
Baseball	19-16	Saturday at Arkansas State
Men's Tennis	26-2	Today at Sun Belt tournament
Women's Tennis	13-10	Today at Sun Belt tournament
Track and Field	#	Tomorrow at Georgia Invitational

Track and field does not keep a record.

Volleyball team releases 1999 schedule

The Western volleyball team, primed to make a run at its first ever NCAA tournament appearance, released Tuesday its 31 game schedule for the fall season.

The Lady Toppers (26-10 last season) hope to boost their Rating Percentage Index and will play 20 of the 31 matches on the road. Western, which finished one game shy of an NCAA automatic bid last season, returns all six starters from last season. Its schedule features playing in the Miami-AmeriHost Invitational, hosted by Miami of Ohio, which advanced to the second round of the NCAA tournament a year ago. The Lady Toppers also play in the Ball State-Nike Challenge in Muncie, Ind. Ball State finished with a No. 36 national ranking in 1998.

Western plays the usual foes in Kentucky and Cincinnati, but because of scheduling conflicts, it will not host its own tournament this season.

— Jerry Brewer

Kilcullen named head coach at North Florida

Matt Kilcullen, former assistant coach at Manhattan College and former head coach at both Jacksonville and Western, has been named head coach at the University of North Florida.

Kilcullen returns to Jacksonville after serving as the head coach of Jacksonville University from 1991-94.

He was Western's head coach from 1994 to 1998, compiling an overall record of 62-52. Kilcullen was fired from Western before the end of the 1997-98 season after three consecutive losing seasons.

— Scott Sisco

Call the Pizza Delivery Experts.

WKI & Vicinity:

781-9494

1383 Center Street

BG Bypass Vicinity:

781-6063

1505 U.S. 31W Bypass

South BG & Dine In:

781-1000

3901 Scottsville Road

Choose From 3 CRUSTS:

- Classic Hand Tossed
- Ultimate Deep Dish
- Crunchy Thin Crust

Deep Dish available in Medium & Large only.
For Deep Dish Crust, add $1.00.

Count on Domino's® to deliver oven-fresh pizza every time. Our state-of-the-art HeatWave™ delivery bags keep your pizza hotter & crispier than ever.

TRY A DOMINO'S SUPER SUB TODAY!

Freshly Baked SUPER SUBS:
6" - $3.99 12" - $5.99

- Philly Cheese Steak
- Meatball & Cheese
- Bacon Club
- ZZesty Italian
- Ham & Cheese
- Turkey & Cheese
- Club Sub

8-pc. Breadsticks $2.08
8-pc. Cheesy Bread $2.99
10-pc. Buffalo Wings $3.99
12 oz. Cokes 60¢

LUNCH SPECIAL
14" Large 1-Topping
GOOD 11 AM - 3 PM ONLY

$5.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#103 CHH

10" Small
2-Topping Pizza &
8-pc. Breadsticks

$6.98

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#150-176 CHH

MEDIUM MEGA DEAL!
Any Medium Pizza
with Any Number of Toppings

$8.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#128/129 CHH

14" Large
1-Topping Pizza
COUPON GOOD ANY TIME.

$6.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#104 CHH

Two 6 inch
Super Subs &
Two 12 oz. Cokes

$6.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

SUB #104 CHH

LARGE MEGA DEAL!
Any Large Pizza
with Any Number of Toppings

$10.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#110/111 CHH

MEDIUM DOUBLES
Two 12" Medium
1-Topping Pizzas

$9.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#132 CHH

LARGE DOUBLES
Two 14" Large
1-Topping Pizzas

$13.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#107 CHH

12" Medium
2-Topping Pizza &
8-pc. Breadsticks

$8.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#135 CHH

12" Medium
2-Topping Pizza &
10-pc. Buffalo Wings

$10.99

Expires: 5-31-99

Offer valid with coupon only.
Coupon not valid with any other offer.
Customer pays applicable sales tax.

#141 CHH