Resolution 97-14-F
Addition of Non-categorical Writing Courses
November 5, 1997

PURPOSE: For the University to require each department offering fewer than two lower division non-categorical writing (w) courses to review their course offerings and establish a minimum of two lower division, non-honors writing (w) courses.

WHEREAS: All students entering Western Kentucky University after 1993 are required to take a minimum of six non-categorical writing (w) courses, and

WHEREAS: some majors do not include any writing (w) courses other than English 100 and English 300 in their programs, and

WHEREAS: many non-categorical writing (w) courses are upper-division and require prerequisites, and

WHEREAS: the increase in non-categorical writing (w) courses in all departments would allow more students to experience writing within their chosen discipline, and

WHEREAS: the inclusion of more lower-division writing courses would prepare students for writing in upper-level courses, and

WHEREAS: denoting more non-categorical writing (w) courses would ease registration conflicts.

THEREFORE: Be it resolved, that we, the members of the Student Government Association do hereby recommend that the University require each department offering less than two lower division non-categorical writing (w) courses to review their course offerings and establish a minimum of two lower division, non-honors writing (w) courses.
